

Lesbian Weddings

We Need Your Input...

Love is in the air. It seems that everywhere we go we are running into women who are planning ceremonies which are being variously referred to as weddings, commitment ceremonies, union ceremonies or trysts. Never mind the lack to date of legal sanction, it seems lesbians are formalizing and celebrating their relationships by "marrying" in record numbers. Good for us! One can only hope that, like "life imitating art", the necessary legislation will soon be enacted.

We thought it would be fun to do an article for our next newsletter on lesbian weddings in our community, but we need your help. If you have had or are planning a ceremony, we want to hear from you. We are interested in knowing what type of ceremony feels right for you, what you are calling it, and a few words that express your feelings about doing it. We will use first names only and you may use pseudonyms if you wish.

Please e-mail your information to our newsletter committee -- suecharles2001@aol.com.

Or you may call Sue or Sandy at 944-7055 if it would be easier to share the information verbally. Either way, we look forward to hearing from you and to having the opportunity to celebrate your relationship in our next issue.

How to tell if you're a butch or a femme

Submitted by Ninna Bryan

I read this book by a woman who calls herself, Ms. Behavior, and it takes a whimsical look at a lot of the gay community stereotypes. I wanted to share this particular subject with you. The book is by Meryl Cohn, published in 1995.

"Ms. Behavior is aware that by bringing up the butch/femme topic, she risks inciting the wrath of thousands of usually good-hearted lesbians, who may wish to trample Ms. Behavior's pulchritude with their cleats. But Ms. Behavior is committed to a life of living dangerously and saying what she thinks.

The iron fist of political correctness warns against acknowledging that the butch/femme phenomenon exists. But you know it does. So it is only when you are alone or surrounded by lesbians in the know that you feel safe to wonder, does it really mean anything if your lover does the laundry and makes dinner every night while you take out the garbage and install the phone jacks? Yes, Ms. Behavior thinks so. She thinks it means you're a Big Bad Butch.

The butch/femme issue can be difficult to swallow because it is frequently and erroneously framed, mostly by foolish heterosexuals, as a gender-identity issue. These misinformed dolts have no way of understanding lesbian sexuality other than as "Who's the man?" Don't waste your breath telling them that this is not a boy-girl thing, or that it is ignorant to construe the butch/femme business as imitative of designated male and female roles in straight culture. They will not get it.

Do not let it get to you, either. Ms. Behavior knows some dykes who get so upset by the whole issue that they deny the very existence of the phenomenon, even as they pound nails into the wall to work out their rage about the matter, productively creating an extension on the house while their lovers sew lace curtains for the living room.

Butch and femme is not an either/or thing; it is a continuum, and can sometimes be rather subtle. There is a fluidity to the expression of either characteristic over time; you may be way more femme (or butch) now than you were three years ago, depending on what other changes have occurred in your life. You might have a fabulously delicate new lover, for example, who inspires you to new levels of butchitude; but once she leaves you for an ax-wielding Amazon, you might just go back to your regular medium-femme self. Additionally, Ms. Behavior finds that describing just how butch or femme someone really is sometimes can be accomplished only as a relative thing, as in "She's butcher than Jamie Lee Curtis, but not as butch as Kate Clinton." That creates a pretty clear picture, doesn't it? Although

Special Interest Groups (SIGS) Bulletin

SACWN's SIGs are small, friendly groups of women who get together monthly (if not more often) to share activities of mutual interest. New members are always welcomed, so we encourage you to call the contact person listed to find out what activities are being planned.

If you are interested in forming a Special Interest Group (SIG), please contact Betty at 731-7192 with your idea. You could share a favorite hobby or interest with other women. We are looking for a leader for the Singles Group. It seems that every woman who takes this on ends up in a relationship. If you are interested in leading the Singles Group or any other SIG, contact Betty at the above number

Rainbow Campers

Rainbow Campers, founded by the late Jayne Rountree, is a loose knit group of lesbians who get together and camp at preselected campgrounds each month, April through October. In memory of Jayne we held an impromptu meeting while camping at Coloma and decided on the following trips for 2001:

April 13,14,15 Coloma. Mary & Linda 732-5269.

June 15,16,17 Casini Ranch. Joyce & Barb 929-3074.

July 20,21,22 Olema (Pt. Reyes area). Joyce & Barb 929-3074.

October 19,20,21 Coloma. Mary & Linda 732-5269.

These trips were decided "ad hoc". We have no trip ideas for May August or September. Anyone willing to be a Wagon Master or who has an idea for where to camp please call Barbara at 929-3074.

Destinations should be easily reached for those who work and would not be able to travel until late in the day or the next day.

How to Attend a Trip:

1. Call the Wagoneer for the trip(s) you want to attend. She will make the group reservation up to sixty days in advance of the scheduled camp date, so call her early.
2. The Wagoneer will tell you the site fee and cancellation date. She will request that you send her the fee for the number of nights that you plan to camp.

If you decide to cancel your reservation, call the Wagoneer before the cancellation date. Fee refunds cannot be made after the cancellation date.

Arts & Entertainment

Saturday, Jan 20th, twenty of us got together for dinner at Café California in Davis before going to "Women's Music Night" at Café Roma. Food was delicious. Rebecca Riots trio and Duval Speck provided some terrific music to a SRO crowd.

Saturday, Feb 3rd, six of us went to the Crest and saw the award winning film "Before Night Falls" It stayed true to Reinaldo Arenas autobiography, especially his and other gays harsh treatment under Castro's Cuba.

Friday, Feb. 9th, six of us had a wonderful pre-theatre dinner at Jackson Alley. Lambda's production of "Standing in the Shadows" was very well done. A member of the audience Karen Thompson, one of the real victims of our "family" laws, provided the basis for one of the plays main characters. After the play, we went to the Lambda Center to attend a reception held in Karen's honor. Sadly, Karen told me that Sharon's family remains estranged from her.

Saturday, Feb. 24th, three of the Duval Speck groupies went to Common Grounds Coffeehouse in Davis to hear some great music. Cathy and Linda can go from show tunes to soft rock to women's songs to rhythm & blues and make it look so easy to us musically impaired individuals. I am so jealous!

Coming up...

Saturday, April 21st, Lambda's "Opening Lines", Geery Theatre, 22nd & L Streets, $10.00 advance, $12.00 at the door. Call 484-4742 for tickets. Dinner at 6:30PM somewhere.

Thursday, May 10, 2:00PM, "Fosse" at Community Center Theater, 13th & L Streets, $25.00 for 2nd tier front. Call 264-5181 CCBO for tickets.

Saturday, May 12th, Lambda's "Lesbian Laugh Fest" (fundraiser), 24th Street theatre, 24th St. & 3rd Ave. Call 484-4742 for tickets. $10.00 in advance and $12.00 at the door. We will meet at 6:45PM at Café Melange, 24th St. & 2nd Ave for coffee and dessert first.

FYI... I have started another list of women interested in seeing "Six Women with Brain Death". If you have not seen this terrific, timely, comedic performance call me and I will put you in contact with other women in same circumstance. Please RSVP timely in order to arrange car-pool and/or dinner reservations.

For more information and to suggest an event for the group call Dee 443-2377.

Volunteer to be an usher at a prominent playhouse and see the stage play as a thank you. Call Kathy, 920-2162.

Bend Over ... It's Tax Time Again!

And once again gay and lesbian couples will be denied the thousands of dollars in deductive benefits available to heterosexual couples. However, under the terms of AB 1338, legislation recently introduced by Assemblymember Paul Koretz, that could change.

If enacted, AB 1338 would establish the choice for same gender couples in California to enter into a civil union, similar to the law recently passed in Vermont. Couples in a civil union would have the opportunity to obtain all of the same rights, protections, benefits and responsibilities afforded heterosexual couples by California's marriage laws, including the joint filing of state income taxes, marital tax rates and marital tax exemptions.

Also included in AB 1338 are provisions relating to:

- Rights and obligations of support during and after the relationship, and community property;
- Child custody and visitation, and stepparent adoption;
- Title, probate, administration of estates, acquisition, ownership or transfer of real or personal property;
- Government benefits, including workers' compensation and unemployment insurance;

- Health insurance coverage for spouses, family care and medical leave, and bereavement leave;

- Hospital visitation, medical consent, conservatorship, disposition of remains, and rights of burial in family cemeteries.

The California Alliance for Pride and Equality (CAPE) is coordinating the broad coalition of organizations supporting this legislation. Along with CAPE, we should all applaud Assemblymember Koretz on his leadership in taking on this issue for the 400,000 same sex couples who currently reside in California. It is historic legislation designed to preserve basic rights and provide equal treatment under the law.

Overnight Scalloped Chicken Casserole

This recipe is great because it can be prepared ahead of time and then popped into the oven later on.

2 cans cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
2-1/2 cups milk
1/2 lb. American or cheddar cheese, cubed
4 cups diced, cooked chicken or turkey
1 box (7 ounces) macaroni
3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted, divided
1-1/2 cups bread crumbs

In a large bowl, combine soup, milk and cheese. Add chicken or turkey, macaroni and eggs. Stir in 1/4 cup melted butter. Transfer to a greased 9" x 13" baking dish. Cover and refrigerate for 8 hours or overnight.

Toss the bread crumbs with the remaining 1/4 cup butter; sprinkle over casserole. Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees for 60-65 minutes or until bubbly and golden brown.

Serves 8-12

~Spiritually Speaking~

This time, like all times, is a very good one if we but know what to do with it.

Is the glass half full or half empty? We know the answer to that question can symbolically reflect whether we have a positive or negative outlook on life. If we see the glass as half empty, we focus on what is gone. But if we say the glass is half full, we see what remains.

If we're full of ideas about how to spend our time, then our outlook is positive and we'll not waste a second. But if we're feeling bored or directionless or lonely, our days may be filled with a lot of negative energy and wasted moments.

Instead of focusing on what we don't have, we can change our attitude and look at what we do have. We have choices about how we want to spend our time. The decisions we make will have a direct bearing on how meaningful each day will be.

How can I change my attitude and make each day full?

some women femme it up with clothing and accessories, Ms. Behavior likes to point out that true butchness or femmeness is really an internal thing. For example, no matter how high Jodie's hair is piled and no matter how low-cut or girly her gown might be on the night she receives her Oscar, she is still a tough butch babe to the core. (Let's also not discount the fact that she talks like a truck driver.) Geena Davis, in contrast, is an undisputed femme, and no amount of Thelmaesque rough talk or gun-wielding can disguise that fact. The point is that (a) you can never cover the true essence o' butch with makeup or clothing, and (b) a femme is a femme is a femme.

Butchness, however, is clearly not just a lesbian phenomenon; straight women clearly have the B-gene without benefit of the means of expressing it in an L-relationship. Who, for example, is more butch than Katharine Hepburn? (Or even Jane Fonda, who Ms. Behavior suspects packs quite the metaphorical bulge beneath that aerobics leotard?) It's just that when straight women are butch, it is usually called something else.

Some of Ms. Behavior's lesbian readers have written to her claiming not to know where they fall on the butch/femme continuum, which Ms. Behavior finds quite odd. At the risk of sounding like their mothers, to these lesbians Ms. Behavior would have to say, "What's wrong with you? Haven't you been paying attention? Go look and see what's hanging in your closet." While clothing, as previously mentioned, cannot be used to determine the truth about who you are, it is at least an indication of where your aspirations lie.

Other lesbians are confused in another way, believing that they are femme when they're really butch, or vice versa. Ms. Behavior once heard the comedian Lea Delaria, in a serious moment, describe herself as femme. Ms. Behavior momentarily choked on her rice cake, and then went on with her life. After all, part of living a serene existence means realizing that there are some mistakes too large ever to attempt to correct.

Self-knowledge is a beautiful thing, however, and needs to be cultivated in all lesbians. Once you know yourself, you can function much more confidently in relation to other dykes, allowing them to spin frantically around your calm and reassuring center. This will make you feel hip and Zen-like. So here's an exercise in self-assessment for those of you who claim to be confused.

Do you wear your keys on a clip and hook them to your belt loop? If so, there's no question about the extent of your butchness. This is much more an attitude thing than a clothing thing; just ask your mother. She probably still yells at you for wearing men's shoes, unless she has thoroughly given up on you.

If you're in that ambiguous slacks-and-blazer group, try this: Do you own a pair of women's shoes with even the teensiest heel? Do you have to borrow pantyhose if the occasion arises to wear them? And would you be able to don them unaided?

Are you attracted to low-slung, phallically influenced vehicles? That screams of butchness. Would you rather be Martina Navratilova than sleep with her? Butch again.

Okay. Now, the femme diagnosis involves visualization. Picture yourself on a camping trip. Does the very idea of sleeping in the woods make you feel nauseated? Do you immediately worry about whether you'd be able to take a shower and style your hair? If a spider crawled into your sleeping bag, would you make someone else kill it? If so, you've got the femme thing happening in a big way.

If you need further convincing, ask yourself these questions: Do you know when your clothing matches without having to ask anyone? Do you own more than three hair products, not including shampoo and conditioner? Would you rather look like Demi Moore than sleep with her? If you've answered yes to all of the above, you're a deep-down femme.

It has been Ms. Behavior's experience (or perhaps she should say observation) that a dyke's relative butchness or femmeness in daily living does not necessarily bear on how she behaves in the boudoir. You'll know what Ms. Behavior means if you've ever seen the button that says "Butch in the bar and femme in the car." So don't be confused by the frosted-hair, polished-nails, gold-chain "femme" who talks like a Marine sergeant in between spits, who you know would have you "yes, ma'am" and saluting in bed. And that stone butch, ropy-muscle member of your softball team who smokes Lucky Strikes with an attitude Brando would have envied might go home at night only to be totally sexually dominated by her lipstick-wearing, lace-clad girlfriend, who ties her up and tickles her with feathers. (Of course, the so-called butch would rather die than tell you this.)

Butch lesbians in the know long ago discovered that some of their wildest evenings of pleasure can happen at the hands of a seemingly demure femme, who emerges between the sheets as a fierce orchestrator of love. The butch will resist at first; she always tries to defend against her own seduction, because she thinks she has to remain in control. In actuality, however, she longs to be rendered helpless so she can give up that tiring feeling of being in charge all the time. True butches are very exhausted people. If you are a femme who manages to maneuver a butch into that state, she is likely to be very grateful. She will envision you as her salvation. She will get down on her knees and beg you for more. She will fetch you things whenever you snap your fingers. It will be fun..."
